

One of the most authoritative voices in the field of international architecture and design

ABITARE is an RCS multimedia system dedicated to architecture, design and projects; an information tool that engages the public with a multiplatform approach: from monthly publications, to online content, live events, narratives and meetings, which are the cornerstones of ABITARE. Since the seventies, Abitare has been published in two languages (Italian and English) with a cosmopolitan audience in mind. A strong relationship with national and international architects and experts that lasts 60 years.

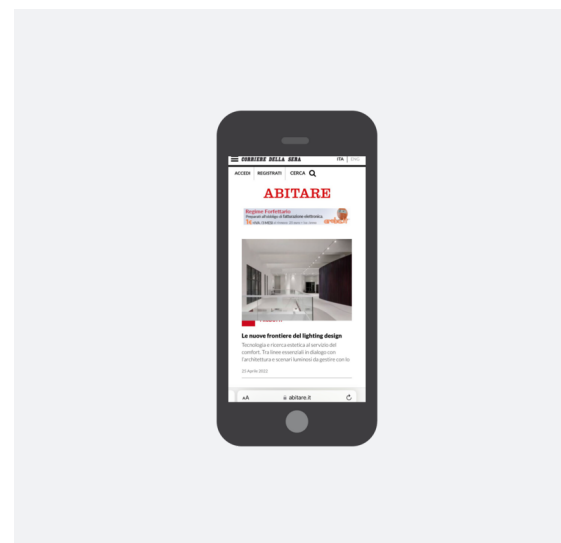

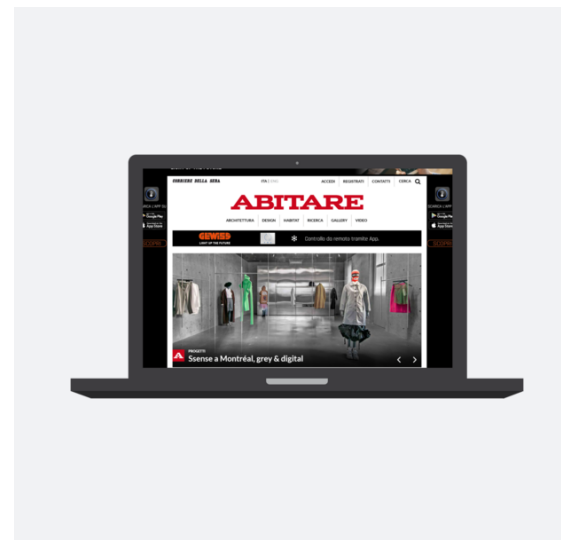

The readership consists of designers, producers, theorists, researchers, academics, institutional figures and agents of the cultural field, universities, museums, foundations and media.
